The Villa sits around 450 m from Pampelonne beach and 5 minutes drive to the centre of town.

This Villa is a historical house with a wonderful location - just behind Pampelonne Beach (5 km long) and just South of the centre of Saint Tropez. Pampelonne is busy during day time as it is by far the nicest beach on the French Mediterranean coast and people travel from all around to get there. From this Villa you have a short stroll. The Villa is just far enough away from the beach clubs not to be bothered by music. It is set near the most shallow part of the water - which makes the water warmer and swimming much more enjoyable. Being just South of the centre of town you never have any traffic driving in and it only takes a few minutes drive to Places des Lices in the centre of town.

The origin of the villa dates back to 1959. At that time there was practically no building behind Pampelonne. In 1955 the Beach Club 55 (800 meters from the Villa) was made to cater for the crew filming "And God Created Woman" with Brigitte Bardot. The popularity of both did amazingly to cement the area's popularity with the international jet set.
